Multiplying Proofs and Overwhelming Evidence in Exposure of the Contemptible Fraud

Judge Davis ordered him committed for contempt of court, at the same time ... Walsh Howe of counsel for the defense ... Judge Hart for a contempt ... saying that Hart was willing to produce the letter but wanted a guarantee that the letter should be returned to him. ... the court would keep the letter but that it might pass into subordinate hands and ... continuing, Mr Howe said if the letter was to remain in the custody of Judge Davis Hart was willing to produce it. Judge Davis said that the letter ... would remain in his custody. On motion Hart was allowed three hours to consult counsel and procure the letter. Hart made a statement that he was willing to produce the letter but that he wanted a guarantee that it would be returned to him or else remain in custody of Judge Davis. The proposition was agreed to and Hart and counsel then left to get the letter ... was recalled and asked to identify a letter written by James A Garfield to Marshall Jewell giving the authenticity of the Morey letter. He testified that the letter of Garfield to Jewell was genuine. Question by Mr Bell: Look at this copy of the newspaper called Truth and also at a copy dated ... look at the photographic copy of a letter purporting to be signed by James A Garfield ... state if in your judgment it is in Gen Garfield's handwriting. Mr Brooks for defense objected to the question as comparison was made with a photographic copy and not with the original which would be produced. Judge Davis ruled that the exhibit was prima facie ... had been given that the fac simile was a photographic copy and that the prisoner had not yet been connected with it. A recess was then taken Indubitable Proof that Philip wrote the Morey Letter.

New York Oct 29 —In the examination of Philp this morning experts Southworth and W. H. Hagan, the latter of Troy testified that the Morey letter was in their judgment in the handwriting of Philp and declared the letter was not in the handwriting of Garfield. A M Lent a newspaper reporter was examined by the prosecution and was familiar with Philp's handwriting had seen a photo lithograph of the Morey letter and believed it to be in Philp's handwriting thought so when he first saw the copy. Philp always had the habit of spelling such words as "companies" and similar words with a y in ... In the Morey letter this mistake is made

The envelope produced this morning was shown to Hagan who testified that there had been an erasure on the stamp and continuing he said there is an erasure on the stamp in the date of the month. I cannot say what the original was. The indications are that the date of the month has been erased by rubbing. On the back of the envelope the stamp date bears indications of erasure and the date and month cannot be deciphered. There are three stamps on the envelope in which no date can be made out—all dates seemingly being erased. The address on the envelope is not in the handwriting of the person who wrote the Lockwood and Jewell letters

At this stage Bell said he would like an adjournment as he had other witnesses to examine who were not present

Hagan was recalled by Col Bliss for the prosecution but his examination was objected to on the ground that Bliss was the complainant. The objection was overruled and Hagan testified: I have submitted the Morey envelope to microscopic tests and have found erasures. I also find on the stamp the figure 1 was printed, while what I call figure 1 is not printed but is a longitudinal stroke and is not set in the same line with figure 2. Above and to the right of the word "Morey" is evidence of two erasures one word that I think is Esq and in the other there is a word erasure to the left of Esq

Charles Hoffman was called and testified as follows: The photograph of the envelope was made under my supervision. I received it from Mr Hart and it is in the same condition now as when I received it. I noticed no erasures. I did not look for them

John Phin testified: I reside in New Jersey. I am editor of the American Journal of Microscopy and have made it a study for twenty-five years. Have been called as a witness as expert before. Saw the Morey envelope two hours ago and have examined it under a microscope. The surface of the paper is disturbed in many points which can be discovered by holding it to the light at several points along and above the name the fibres are disturbed. There is an erasure above the word "Morey" has been evidently the word "Esq" disturbance of the fibre is on the outside of envelope

Mr Phin was then cross-examined by Mr Howe. He was shown part of the envelope with the words "J A Garfield M C" and the mark of the stamp on it. On request he made a microscopic investigation of it and testified that the mark is stamped. It has been stamped twice

James A Gaylor general superintendent of the city delivery postoffice said he recognized on the envelope the stamp "Rec'd New York 7 30". The stamp on the Morey letter indicates its receipt in New York postoffice and if it was sent from Washington to Lynn that stamp would not be there

Daniel F Ames recalled for the prosecution testified that the handwriting on the Morey envelope closely resembles the exhibits which are in Philp's writing

Adjourned until to morrow

The Testimony of an Expert.

New York Oct 29 —Ineffectual efforts are being made by Philp's counsel to rule out the testimony on purely technical grounds. Expert Ames testified before Judge Davis that the handwriting of the forged letter to Morey was inconsistent. At some points the loops were long and some short, some thick and some thin. The witness added: When Garfield crossed his t's ... the line begins at the letter itself whereas in the Morey letter the crossing is a dash which the stem of the t cuts in its middle. In regard to the signature the dot of the i is ... instead of the right and in the ... word. The writer of the editorial (Philp) has a habit of making ... of three distinct straight strokes. There is only one ... in the Morey letter ... with exhibit H last line. It will also be found ... K line five ... are entirely different ... in the Morey letter ... an ... The form ... Before his trip to Washington I know that ... had been betting heavily that New York would go democratic. He did his betting and only ... On his return he ... to ... $4,000 and $5,000 for ... friends ... to hedge on his former bets and make a wager that the Empire state would give a large majority for Garfield. This afternoon he told me why he had changed his tactics. He says that there is a positive though unwritten agreement or understanding between Chester A Arthur and John Kelly. The agreement was made some time ago by Arthur Conkling and ... on one side and Kelly on the other. He says that only three of Kelly's leading lieutenants know of this arrangement, and he will not give their names ... the others also have been laying the plans necessary to carry out the scheme and do not know what they are doing it for ... from ... the ... of these four leaders. The ... city tickets in New York and Brooklyn are a part of this scheme. Another portion of the plan is in regard to the tickets. The names of the Garfield electors are to be put on the tickets which bear a fac simile of the democratic ticket and these are to be used late in the day in democratic wards where workmen who under the control of Tammany have stopped work and are ready to vote. Several other plans have been arranged by which ... tickets will vote for the democratic mayor and ... Tammany candidates in return the democrats are to give Garfield their support. Tickets and ... are said to be ready, and my informant said he saw several of them. The same plan will be worked as far as possible in the various cities and towns where there are many anti Tilden and anti Robinson men who will slaughter their opponents at the price of the Hancock electors

Geo. W. Curtis on the Situation.

Geo Wm Curtis giving reasons for his conviction that the republicans will carry this state on Tuesday ... says "Every reason which gave Tilden his majority has disappeared. Instead of universal prostration to which any change was welcome ... the universal prosperity. Instead of the hope of reform from the democratic party, the cipher conspiracy and the Gramercy frauds have stripped from it every pretense of reform. Instead of ... and fraternal spirit of the union in the southern states, the extra session revealed the monstrous policy defended by doctrines which have justly aroused universal distrust. The discontented republicans of '76 are solid for Garfield. The independents who voted for Tilden will heartily support Garfield. There is every sign of a great popular uprising of a movement of the people which sweeps away the politicians and demands the presidency of an honest able and experienced statesman. If there is ... possible reason for supposing the democrats will carry New York we have not heard it

What will the Democrats Stoop to Next?

Ottawa, Ill , Oct 29 —The discovery was made this afternoon that the poll books printed for this county by the democratic official organ and distributed by the democratic county clerk were so grossly erroneous as to vitiate the election of the republican presidential electors. The list of ... they had remained uncorrected. The poll books contained the names of all the democratic electors in full while of all but seven of the republican candidates the first name had been omitted. If returns were made up on these poll books a valid objection to counting the votes for the republican electors could readily be raised. The announcement of the fact created a great sensation in political circles in this city

Reporter—General can you give any explanation of the matter in which the story originated?

Gen Rosecrans—No sir I cannot. It was evidently ... a mere fabrication ... probably ... best ... from the fact that I was so far away and probably because I have been friendly to Garfield

Reporter—Then there is no foundation to the story that you gave the letter East?

Reporter—Do you not think that ... that you knowingly lent yourself to ... of forgery?

A —Yes, sir. I can express my contempt for men who would stoop so low. It is an infamous outrage and I just want to say one word about that foolish little speech which Garfield recently delivered at Mentor. The General throughout the interview labored under great excitement, his vehemence causing him to tremble violently. He denounced all parties connected with the charge of complicity in unmeasured terms

The California Sand Lot Address.

New York Oct 29 —The address of workingmen of California is being circulated as a campaign document here. After presenting the condition of workingmen in California as reduced to want and beggary through the influence of the Chinese it states we can hope for no relief from the republican party and especially Garfield who has always worked to promote Chinese immigration to this country and to give to the Chinese the right of suffrage. It concludes: Our only hope is in the election of Hancock and English. The platform on which they stand speaks in no uncertain terms. The address is signed by J. H. Characteristic Democratic Lies.

The democrats have flooded Maine with the forgery about the tariff. THE DOIG CASE.

Full Text of Judge Hoffman's Decision Sustaining the Writ of Habeas Corpus—The Case Turns on the Power and Duty of the District Judge to Refuse to Send a Person for Trial in Another District, where the Indictment is so Defective in Material Averments that the Court to which it was Presented Ought to Decline to Act upon it

Following is the full text of Judge Hoffman's decision in the case of the pilot of the Great Republic

IN RE THOMAS DOIG, PETITION FOR HABEAS CORPUS

The return of the marshal shows that he holds the prisoner by virtue of a commitment by United States Commissioner O'Beirne commanding him to receive into his custody and safely keep the said Thomas Doig to await the action in the premises of the United States district Judge for the district of California. The offense for which the petitioner was committed is described in the commitment as follows: "That on or about the 19th of April, 1880 in the district of Oregon and within the jurisdiction of the district court of the United States for said district he the said Thomas Doig, having then and there control and management of a certain steam vessel called the Great Republic as a pilot did by his misconduct negligence and inattention to his duty as said pilot, cause the death by drowning of the first officer and others of the crew of said ship or vessel, whose names are to the ... unknown. The complaint on which the original warrant of arrest was issued charged the prisoner with the offense of manslaughter on the high seas but it appears by the commitment, and is admitted by the district attorney that the only evidence produced to the committing magistrate was a

CERTIFIED COPY OF AN INDICTMENT

Found by the grand jury of the United States for the district of Oregon. It is contended, on behalf of the petitioner that the indictment nowhere alleges the crime to have been committed on the high seas or within the district of Oregon, but on the contrary, it affirmatively appears that the offense ... was committed in Washington territory. The district attorney objects to the consideration by the court of this question and contends that the duty of the district judge in the premises is purely ministerial and restricted to issuing a warrant for the removal of the prisoner to the district where the trial is to be had (R S 1014). This view of the powers and duties of the district judge in this class of cases or of the powers and duties of the circuit or district court when the prisoner is brought before it on habeas corpus cannot be maintained. In the case of Ihis Buell the question was presented under circumstances very similar to those of the ... at the bar to the circuit court for the eighth district. Buel was arrested and committed in Michigan for trial in the District of Columbia on an indictment found in that district charging him with having written a libel therein which he afterward published in Detroit. It was contended there as here that the question of the

SUFFICIENCY OF THE INDICTMENT

Was for the court in which it was ... the district judge on any application ... warrant of removal. On this Judge ... cannot agree to the ... in the present case ... devolves ... high judicial ... ment ... and important duty. Sand island ... and the said vessel was then and there wrecked ... and ... persons ... whose names are to the jurors unknown were ... by the ... misconduct ... and that by reason ... and ... the lives of said officers ... the said Doig became and was guilty of manslaughter contrary to the form of the statutes etc. The section of the revised statutes under which this indictment is drawn is so far as is material to this case in substance as follows: Every captain engineer pilot ... by whose misconduct negligence or inattention to his duties the life of any person is destroyed ... shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter. It is not sufficient under this statute that the officer has been guilty of misconduct negligence and inattention to duty. Human life must have been destroyed. The destruction of life is the

ESSENCE OF THE OFFENSE

Misconduct however egregious is innocent under this section unless it be the cause of the manslaughter. It is evident therefore that the offender is guilty not when the misconduct or negligence occurred (it may be at the beginning of the voyage or trip of the steamer) but where the misconduct bore fruit by causing the death of a human being. The first charge of the indictment merely avers as we have seen that Thomas Doig on the 19th of April 1880 in the district of Oregon and within the jurisdiction of the court was a pilot, etc. It does not even allege that he was was then engaged within the district or within the jurisdiction of the court in the performance of his duties as such pilot. It further avers that on the 19th of April, 1880 the Great Republic was making a voyage from San Francisco to Portland and that on that day she arrived off the Columbia river at or near the automatic buoy that Doig then and there took charge of her and that by his misconduct she was wrecked on Sand island where the loss of life by drowning occurred. It is not alleged that the steamer was at any time while Doig had charge of her within the jurisdiction of the court. It is not averred that she was on the high seas or that she was

WITHIN THE DISTRICT

It is not averred that the automatic buoy where the alleged misconduct commenced is within the jurisdiction of the court or within the district of Oregon nor is either of these averments made with respect to Sand island where the deaths by drowning occurred and where the offense of manslaughter was committed. But this is not all. It affirmatively appears from an examination of the statutes which define the northern boundary of Oregon an inspection of the official charts of the coast survey and the testimony of an expert who identifies the natural objects called for in the description of the boundary line contained in the statutes and laid down on the chart that said island is not within the district of Oregon but is within the boundaries of Washington territory. The offense is therefore, not justiciable in the district of Oregon and the United States courts of Oregon are without jurisdiction to try the offender. The analogy between this case and in re Buell decided by Judge Dillon is thus seen to be perfect. In that case it was this. The indictment showed on its face that the offense was not committed within the jurisdiction of the court in which the indictment was found. The prisoner must be discharged

Numbers of emigrants are moving into St Helens and several new houses are contracted for. The Muckle Bros are expending about $3000 in the improvement of their wharf and elevation of Main street. A new and commodious school house is rapidly approaching completion and all signs indicate a revival of business interests

Very much credit is due to the Muckle Bros under whose energetic management the extensive lumber mill is running on a full time putting into the market about 35,000 feet of lumber daily. This gives work to quite a large gang of men who in turn give business activity to the stores, saloons and hotels. At the present time they are filling large orders for the O R & N Co of car materials and railroad ties

Quite near to the mills is a ship yard, and on the stocks a beautiful schooner nearing completion of about 219 tons burden. These cabalistic figures being index of tonnage as they foreshadow the presidential electoral vote for James A Garfield may foretell the name she is to receive when christened. She is 100 feet long over all has 24 feet beam and 10 feet depth of hold. Her keel and keelson are full length pieces of timber 12x18 and many of her lining plank are 40 feet in length. There is some talk of putting up the frame of a barkentine for coastwise lumber trade as soon as the James A Garfield is launched

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The freight market has been rather quiet for the past day or two, the weather having been threatening, while at the same time the political excitement has its effect.

The Samuel Watts is loading and will probably finish to-morrow. Rates remain quiet and steady at last quotations. Tonnage is in good supply, there having been numerous arrivals during the past few days, and ships are anxious to accept California business, and no less than four were offered to-day at current quotations, say at about $8 per ton dead weight. None were taken, however, as a free tender will warrant a reduction in figures, but there is no doubt but that Van Vleck & Simson and Howes will both take vessels, as rates will probably be lowered owing to competition. Those vessels already chartered at a high figure will be obliged to lose money, as was the case a year ago.

Railroad freights are still fairly active, although not so much so as a week ago. Shipments include 30 bbls and 1321 cases baking powder, 1638 pkgs tobacco, 33 cases citron, 45 bbls currants, 100 boxes of raisins, 20 packages of figs, 250 cases of petroleum, 255 cases canned goods, 1797 kegs and 110 bbls syrup, 125 cases milk, 50 bags coffee, 420 boxes soap, 174 boxes tin, 628 boxes window glass, also 3635 bars steel rails. To-day a change was made in the tariff circular of January, 1880, viz: advancing rate on sugar to $2 ⅌ 100 lbs, an increase of $1 ⅌ 100 lbs.

Markets generally are quiet.
Wheat—Quiet and steady, shippers doing little.
Barley—In good demand and firm.
Lard—Active and higher.
Rio Coffee—Quiet and nominal.
Refined Sugars—Dull and easy.
Hides—Quiet and firm.
Turpentine—Quiet, 1½c higher.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

Some Excitement—Free Purchases and Higher Prices all Round.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Boston wool market quite excited. Manufacturers are free purchasers at more or less speculative inquiry. There has been a general slight advance in prices, more particularly in washed fleeces which are 5c ⅌ lb higher and the tendency of prices is upward. Among sales were 1,000,000 pounds of washed fleeces and stocks are rapidly disappearing; 1,600,000 pounds unwashed fleeces, including California, Oregon, Texas, territory and western; 425,000 pounds of delaine and combing and 400,000 pounds of superfine and X pulled. Business has been far ahead of any previous week this year, amounting in the aggregate to about 4,000,000 pounds of all kinds.

Manufacturers are evidently short of stock and were forced to purchase, especially as it is evident that prices are as low now as they are likely to be for some time to come. Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces have been sold at 45@47c for X, XX and XXX and above, and are now held at 46@48c; fleeces from 40@42½c and are now held at 42@43c and medium and No. 1 fleeces at 44@49c, according to quality. Combing and delaine fleeces are in demand and leading mills are purchasing all available lots at 44@46 for fine delaine and 50@52½c for desirable combing. California wool ranged from 20 to 28c according to quality; and the best Humboldt is held at 49c. Pulled wools have been sold mostly from 40 to 45c. for super, up to 48@50c for choice. One feature of the market was the demand for unwashed medium fleeces, which were sold to some extent at 32@36c. There has been in fact a sweeping movement for all grades and qualities and prices are likely to go higher at an early day. Some Australian has been sold at 46@46c and good Montevideo at 35@37c.

SAN FRANCISCO WHEAT MARKET.

Review of the Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—There has been quite an active business done in spot vessels during the past week, but rates have not shown any improvement. Charters reported being at about the same figures current at date of last review. Disengaged tonnage in port has been greatly reduced, there being at this writing but 6017 tons in the list, all but one vessel having arrived within a week. Exporters are liberally supplied with tonnage, and there is still quite a fleet due. Many of the vessels being under engagement, this with a weak market, on the other side, undoubtedly prevents an advance in freights, which otherwise would naturally occur. The few vessels in port disengaged are firmly held. Ships are receiving excellent dispatch, and in spite of additions to the wheat list, the net increase during the week is barely 5000 tons.

Although public dispatches yesterday reported wheat in England stronger private dispatches later contradicted the statement and reported the market weak and tending downward. Shippers have found no difficulty in obtaining wheat and are apparently well supplied, judging from the indifference displayed.

Our exports of wheat to date are but 2 549,358 centals, against 4,342,282 centals for same period in 1879, and 4,531,410 in 1878, which shows that a very active export trade must be maintained for the balance of the year if the average for the first half of past seasons is to be reached.

The latest charters reported are the bark Sonoma, 1060 tons, merchandise to New York in the dispatch line $20,500; British ship Gryfe, 1069 tons, wheat to Cork or U. K., 2£ 17s 6d, prior to arrival. British ship Warwick, 992 tons, wheat to Cork U. K., 3£, prior to arrival.

Philadelphia Wool Market.

[SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—Wool—Active and firm, with a slight tendency upward. Oregon, firm at 27 @30c; medium, 32@33c; coarse, 30c; New Mexican and Colorado, fine, 16@20c; medium, 24@28c; coarse carpet wool, 20@21c; pulled extra merino, 36@45c; superfine and lambs, 30@40c.

TROPIC FRUIT LAXATIVE

Is Nature's Great System

Renovator

and its effects are as certain as they are salutary, searching out and removing impurities from the system, and acting not only as a prime curative, but as a thorough preventive.

Tropic-Fruit Laxative is supplanting the use of pills and drastic purgatives in Constipation and all kindred ailments.

Packed in bronzed tin boxes only. Avoid imitations. Ask your druggist for Descriptive Pamphlet, or address the proprietor,

J. E. HETHERINGTON,
New York or San Francisco.

TO

Sportsmen and Tourists.

THE UPPER CASCADES AND VICINITY, AT the present season, offers the finest inducements of perhaps any locality within a radius of 200 miles of Portland. Lake trout and mountain trout await the disciples of the "gentle art," whilst the followers of Nimrod can feast with the festive bear and frolicsome cougar to their heart's content, while deer are not unknown.

An elegant and comfortable hotel (The Borthwick House) is now established, with Portland prices, and reliable guides, dogs, boats, guns, and everything necessary for an outfit, can be had within ten minutes.

The glorious mountain scenery, elegant river views, and enormous government works, alone, will amply repay a visit.

45 Years Before the Public.

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa. the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

DR. PAUL N. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast,

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know, that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

From One Fire to Another.

[illegible], Oct. 29.—In the U. S. district court to-day Judge H[illegible] refused [illegible] that Agent Berry be turned over to the [illegible] authorities. It is understood [illegible] and in the event of Berry's [illegible] U. S. commissioner, he will be arrested and taken to [illegible] for trial. Berry has [illegible] here.

Yesterday's receipts of grain were the largest ever known on the produce exchange. They aggregated 1,640,000 bushels, divided as follows: Wheat, [illegible]; corn, 782,400; oats, 86,100; barley, [illegible]; [illegible] 2,100; rye, 21,500.

Trying to Buy Connecticut.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Facts ascertained to-day indicate that Barnum is preparing to make every effort to carry Connecticut. The Democratic State Central committee at New Haven, Saturday last received from him $25,000 in the form of a certificate of deposit, which was placed in one of the New Haven banks. Ex-Governor James English, Democratic candidate for Governor, matches this contribution with his own check for $25,000. The Republicans claim that this effort indicates that Barnum is so uncertain as to other States that he regards it as positively necessary that Connecticut's six electoral votes shall be secured. Another and quite as reasonable a theory is that he is seeking to grind his own axe, even if the National ticket suffers, by making a great effort to carry the Legislature so as to secure his own election to the Senate, (which has long been his ambition. Unquestionably the throwing of such a sum as $50,000 into so small and close a state on the very eve of election cannot fail to have some effect.

Dr. Talbot's Murderers.

St. Louis, Oct. 29.—The examination at Marysville, Mo., yesterday and to-day for murdering Dr. Talbot on the night of Sept. 19th resulted in the committal of two sons and a hired man without bail, and holding Mrs. Talbot an accessory.

Cincinnati, Oct. 29.—Henry Watterson has written the committee of the chamber of commerce that he did not see the letter which the Courier Journal recently published, and which came from a Cincinnati merchant, declaring that the merchants of Cincinnati did not care for southern trade or wish the [illegible] of southern men. Had he seen it he would not have printed it, because he did not believe it reflected the views of the business men of Cincinnati. He would not, however, disclose the name of the writer, which would imperil his business, if not his life.

Fatal Explosion.

Exeter, N. H., Oct. 29.—The rotary bleacher and [illegible] in Robertson's paper mill burst this morning. One man was killed and several injured. The mill completely ruined. Loss $20,000.

A company of soldiers has been sent from Quitman in pursuit.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Important Land Decision.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The Acting Commissioner of the General Land Office to-day rendered a decision sustaining the action of the Marysville, California, register and receiver in the matter of application of [illegible] C. Ford, to enter under the law of June [illegible], the land embraced in his homestead entry [illegible] November, 1879, during the pendency of a contest [illegible] Ackerman for cancellation of said entry on the ground of abandonment. Acting Commissioner, [illegible] this decision, announces the following construction of the two apparently conflicting laws for the relief of homestead settlers, which were enacted at the last session of Congress: [illegible] that when a person has commenced proceedings for cancellation of a homestead entry in order to avail himself of the privileges and rights [illegible] by section 2 of the act of May, 14, 1880, he acquired such an adverse standing and interest [illegible] prevent the contestee from making payment [illegible] act of June 15, 1880, for the land embraced in [illegible] homestead, or in other words that the right of [illegible] conferred by the last mentioned act is confined to cases wherein the United States and the applicant to purchase are the only parties interested.

DEMOCRATIC DEGREDATION.

THE PARTY'S LAST HOPE STAKED ON A PITIFUL FORGERY.

Multiplying Proofs and Overwhelming Evidence in Exposure of the Contemptible Fraud.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Oct. 29.—The proceedings in the case of Philp, charged with malicious libel [illegible] to-day attracted a large crowd of people to the [illegible] court room of the Supreme Court. Judge Davis occupied the bench, and there was a full array of counsel on both sides. Assistant District Attorney Bell, for the people, called as the first witness Col. A. F. Rockwell, U. S. A., of Washington. He testified that he had known Garfield for years, was his classmate, and graduated with him at college. In his extensive correspondence with Garfield, more than a thousand letters had passed between them. Witness was therefore familiar with Garfield's handwriting. A letter [illegible] was handed the witness and identified by him as the copy of a letter received by him in November from Garfield. Assistant Attorney Bell asked counsel for defence if they had the original Morey letter. Counsel stated that they did not propose to answer that question at present. A photograph of the letter in a gilt frame was handed in by the defence. Bell declined to receive this, and again called for the original in order that he might examine Col. Rockwell in regard to it. Counsel for Philp stated that the original letter was not in possession of their client, but was held by Mr. Hart, publisher of the Truth. The latter was in court and was called to the witness stand. Hart said he had not the original Morey letter with him. It was in possession of a friend, but declined to give his name. Witness could not procure the letter, as his friend was out of town. Mr. Bell demanded the name of the party to whom the letter had been delivered, but Hart again refused. The Court ordered him to answer, but he again in a respectful tone declined, Judge Davis ordered him committed for contempt of Court, and he was handed over to the custody of the police. Capt. Walsh Howe, of counsel for defence, made a motion to purge Hart from contempt, saying that Hart was willing to produce the letter but wanted a guarantee that the letter should be returned to him. Howe explained that he did not mean to say the court would keep the letter, but that it might pass into subordinate hands and be lost. Continuing, Mr. Howe said if the letter was to remain in the custody of Judge Davis, Hart was willing to produce it. Judge Davis said that the letter would remain in his custody. On motion, Hart was allowed three hours to go with counsel and procure the letter. Hart makes a statement that he was willing to produce the letter, but that he wanted a guarantee it would be returned to him, or else remain in custody of Judge Davis. The proposition was agreed to and Hart and counsel then left to get the letter. Col. Rockwell was recalled and asked to identify letter written by James A. Garfield to Marshall Jewell denying the authenticity of the Morey letter. He testified that this letter of Garfield's to Jewell was genuine. Question by Mr. Bell: Look at this copy of the newspaper called Truth, and also at a copy dated 20th; look at the photographic copy of a letter purporting to be signed by James A. Garfield, and state it in your judgment it is in Garfield's handwriting. Mr. Brooks, for defence, objected to the question, as comparison was made with a photographic copy and not with the original, which would be produced. Judge Davis ruled that the evidence was premature, as no proof had been given that the facsimile was a photograph copy, and that the prisoner had not yet been connected with it. A recess was then taken.

Indubitable Proof that Philp wrote the Morey Letter.

New York, Oct. 29.—In the examination of Philp this morning, experts Southworth and W. E. Hagan, the latter of Troy, testified that the Morey letter was in their judgment in the handwriting of Philp, and declared the letter was not in the handwriting of Garfield. A. S. Leet, a newspaper reporter, was examined by the prosecution and was familiar with Philp's handwriting, had seen the photo lithograph of the Morey letter, and believed it to be in Philp's handwriting, thought so when he first saw the copy. Philp always had the habit of spelling such words as "companies" and similar words with a "y" instead of "ies." In the Morey letter this mistake is made.

The envelope produced this morning was shown to Hogan who testified that there had been an erasure on the stamp, and continuing he said, "there is an erasure on the stamp in the date of the month. I cannot say what the original was. The indications are that the date of the month has been erased by rubbing. On the back of the envelope the stamp date bears indications of erasure, and the date and month cannot be deciphered. There are three stamps on the envelope in which no dates can be made out—all that is seemingly being erased. The address on the envelope is not in the handwriting of the person who wrote the Rockwell and Jewell letters."

At this stage Bell said he would like an adjournment as he had other witnesses to examine who were not present.

Hogan was recalled by Col. Bliss for the prosecution, but his examination was objected to on the ground that Bliss was the complainant. The objection was overruled and Hogan testified: "I have submitted the Morey envelope to microscopic tests and have found erasures. I also find on the stamp the figure 2 was printed, while what I call figure 1 is not printed but is a longitudinal stroke, and is not set in the same field with figure 2. Above and little to the right of the word 'Morey' is evidence of two erasures, one word that I think is 'Esq.' and further there is a word erasure to the left of Esq."

Charles [illegible] was called, and testified as follows: The photograph of the envelope was made under my supervision. I received it from Mr. Hart, and it is in the same condition now as when I received it. I noticed no erasures; I did not look for them.

John Phin testified: I reside in New Jersey. I am editor of the American Journal of Microscopy, and have made it a study for twenty-five years; have been called as a witness as expert before; saw the Morey envelope two hours ago, and have examined it under a microscope; the surface of the paper is disturbed in many points, which can be discovered by holding it to the light; at several points along and above the name the fibres are disturbed; there is an erasure above the word "Morey;" had been evidently the word "Esq.;" disturbance of the fibre is on the outside of envelope.

Mr. Phin was then cross-examined by Mr. Howe. He was shown part of the envelop with the words "J. A. Garfield, M. C., and the mark of the stamp on it. On request, he made a microscopic investigation of it and testified that the mark is stamped. It has been stamped twice.

James A. Gayler, general superintendent of the city delivery post office, said he recognized on the envelop the stamp, "Rec'd New York, 7:30." The stamp on the Morey letter indicates its receipt in New York postoffice, and if it was sent from Washington to Lynn that stamp would not be there.

Daniel T. Ames, recalled for the prosecution, testified that the handwriting on the Morey envelop closely resembles the exhibits, which are in Philp's writing.

Adjourned until to-morrow.

The Testimony of an Expert.

New York, Oct. 29.—Ineffectual efforts are being made by Philp's counsel to rule out the testimony on purely technical grounds. Expert Ames testified before Judge Davis that the handwriting of the forged Garfield letter to Morey was [illegible]. At some points the loops were long and some short, some thick and some thin. The witness added, "When Garfield crossed his 't' the cross line begins at the letter itself, whereas in the Morey letter the crossing is a dash which the stem of the 't' cuts in its middle. In regard to the signature the dot of the 'i' is to the left of the 'f' instead of the right, and in the editorial marked 'D to K' I find this peculiarity in the same word. The writer of the editorial (Philp) has a habit of making a 'k' of three distinct straight strokes. There is only one 'k' of the Morey letter and that letter may be compared with exhibit 'H' last line. It will also be found in exhibit 'K,' line [illegible]. They are entirely different. Furthermore in Garfield's genuine signature the 'g' is round at the top. In the Morey letter on the contrary it has a [illegible] at the top. The form and hand [illegible] and degree of the motion make it impossible for Garfield to have written it."

Philp not Punishable for Forgery.

New York, 29.—The following is furnished republican headquarters: "Philp could not be prosecuted for the forgery inasmuch as the statutes of the state of New York on the subject of forgery contain no provision for the punishment of forgery of a letter such as the Morey letter." The statutes of this state [illegible] of forgery are confined to the forgery of [illegible] instruments affecting the rights [illegible] property [illegible]

The trick of this is apparent. Hart's arrest was for contempt in refusing to produce the original letter [illegible] by its production he was discharged from that arrest. No other charge has been made against him. The case against Philp is still pending.

The Thinnest Yet.

New York, Oct. 29.—At a meeting at Irving Hall to-night A. S. Hewitt spoke and referred to the [illegible] letter. He repeated that he did not vouch for the body of the letter written by Garfield, but regarded the signature as genuine.

Birds of a Feather.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Most of the associates of the forger Philp are well known in the city [illegible] one of them having been well known as a newspaper reporter, and [illegible] Huntley, who is closely connected with the Morey [illegible] escapade [illegible] nearly every city where he has worked. He it was who first "gave his pal away" by telegraphing the fact to a paper several days in advance of Philp's arrest, but the paper [illegible] Huntley as a reporter, knew his character for [illegible] declined to publish the dispatch [illegible] regular news correspondent, but Jacob Huntley's name at the bottom to indicate that it was of doubtful veracity, and refrained from editorial endorsement of the tale. Huntley evidently let his desire for [illegible] overcome his regard for his friend Philp. The other persons who are in league with Philp, Josh Hart, the minstrel Archie Gordon, the newspaper pirate and publisher, Byrne of the Dramatic News, all have reputations of the most unsavory sort, and are known pretty generally in this section for just what they are, and the utmost astonishment is expressed that the democratic national committee should give ear to so graceless a set of scoundrels, whose united sworn testimony would not weigh against the bare word of any honorable man.

This Does Settle It.

THE LATEST SENSATION.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

New York, Oct. 29.—The Herald publishes the following Pittsburg special: A prominent republican [illegible] here was lately at Washington, where he had a talk with one or two republican leaders who met him there by appointment to discuss the final arrangements for the campaign in western Pennsylvania. Before his trip to Washington I knew that he had been betting heavily that New York would go democratic. He did this quietly, and only one or two persons knew of it. On his return he drew between $1000 and $2000 from a bank and gave it to two of his friends to hedge on his former bets and make new ones that the Empire state would give a large majority for Garfield. This afternoon he told me why he had changed his tactics. He says that there is a positive, thorough and well defined agreement or understanding between Chester A. Arthur and John Kelly. The agreement was made some time ago by Arthur, Conkling and Cameron on one side, and Kelly on the other. He says that only three of Kelly's leading lieutenants know of this arrangement, and he will not give their names. The others also have been laying the plans necessary to carry out the scheme, and do not know why they are doing it, but are acting from orders or suggestions from the four leaders. The nominations on city tickets in New York and Brooklyn are a part of this scheme. Another portion of the plan is in regard to the tickets. The names of the Garfield electors are to be put on the tickets, which are a facsimile of the democratic ticket, and these are to be used late in the day in democratic wards, when workmen, who, under the control of Tammany, have stopped work and are ready to vote. Several other plans have been arranged by which republicans will vote for the democratic mayor and the Tammany candidates; in return the democrats are to give Garfield their support. Tickets and stickers are said to be ready, and my informant said he saw several of them. The same plan will be worked as far as possible, in the various cities and towns where there are many anti-Tilden and anti-Robinson men, who will slaughter their opponents at the price of the Hancock electors.

Geo. W. Curtis on the Situation.

Geo. Wm. Curtis giving reasons for his conviction that the republicans will carry this state on Tuesday's election, says: "Every reason which gave Tilden his majority has disappeared. Instead of universal prostration, to which any change was welcome, there is universal prosperity. Instead of the hope of 'reform' from the democratic party, the cipher conspiracy and the Garcelon frauds have stripped from it every pretense of reform. Instead of a loyal and fraternal spirit of the union in the southern states, the extra session revealed the monstrous policy defended by doctrines which have justly aroused universal distrust. The discontented republicans of '76 are solid for Garfield. The independents who voted for Tilden will heartily support Garfield. There is every sign of a great popular uprising, of a movement of the people which sweeps away the politicians and demands the presidency of an honest, able and experienced statesman. If there be one possible reason for supposing the democrats will carry New York we have not heard it.

Judge Black Reported as Supporting Garfield.

New York, Oct. 29.—The Herald's Cleveland special says: Garfield has now in his possession a letter from Judge Black in which he substantially pledges himself to Garfield as against Hancock. Gov. Foster, when at Garfield's house last Sunday, having heard of the letter, tried to obtain possession of it, but Garfield declined to give it up or even to let him see it, stating that he could not in honor do anything that would make it public, as it was intended for his private use.

Interference with Federal Officers.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—The U. S. marshal this morning, on a federal warrant, arrested Dwyer, who assaulted the supervisor while in the discharge [illegible] of his duty at the registration poll in the fourth ward. Warrants are also out on the same charge for policeman [illegible] and [illegible] McNally, registry clerk at that poll. [illegible] this afternoon. [illegible]

Good Results of Grant's Work.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—The Journal's New York special says: [illegible] majority in the state of over [illegible] outside of New York and Brooklyn. [illegible] at least [illegible]. Following close upon [illegible] Grant at Syracuse comes the announcement that several [illegible] democrats of that city have come out for Garfield. Among them are [illegible], the well known [illegible], Wm. [illegible], president of the Morris Run Coal Company, [illegible], the well known brewer [illegible] and many others almost equally well known.

A Barrel Reported on the Way to Chicago.

An Appeal from Business Men.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—A large majority of the members of the board of trade, including many who in 1876 voted for Tilden, have signed a circular petition for business men to vote for Garfield, stating that republican success would continue the present prosperity, and democratic success would upset values and imperil business interests.

What will the Democrats Stoop to Next?

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 29.—The discovery was made this afternoon that the poll books printed for this county by the democratic [illegible] and distributed by the democratic county clerk, were so grossly [illegible] as to vitiate [illegible] of the republican presidential electors Tuesday if they had not been discovered. The poll books contained the names of all the democratic electors in full, while of all but seven of the republican candidates the first name had [illegible] on these poll books, a valid objection to counting the vote [illegible]. The announcement of the fact created a great sensation in political circles in the city.

He [illegible] a full statement shortly which will vindicate Weaver. He closes by expressing the belief that the greenback cause will prevail sooner or later.

Big Democratic Demonstration.

San Francisco, Oct. 29.—The democratic torchlight procession this evening was the largest of the campaign. It was two hours and twenty minutes passing the Western [illegible], but there were many [illegible] and some [illegible] and a fair estimate [illegible] the number in line at [illegible]. A grand marshall [illegible] Hancock Lancers mounted. A line of carriages came next, then followed the [illegible] committee of the W. B. C. and the Democratic State Club, Hancock Rangers, democratic county committee, ward presidents W. P. C., and [illegible] division of young men's [illegible] boys, carrying [illegible] blue and gray [illegible] Hancock and English clubs, German, Portuguese and Scandinavian clubs, [illegible] brigades, and the workingmen's [illegible]. The streets were lined with spectators at various points. Fireworks were [illegible] and [illegible] lights were carried in wagons in the procession. Many transparencies of original and novel design were borne in the ranks. Excellent order prevailed and the demonstration in point of numbers and [illegible] was a decided success.

The previous estimate of the number in the democratic procession [illegible] gave from 7,000 to 8,000. The [illegible] of the testimony fixing on about 7750.

Gen. Rosecrans in a State of Excitement.

San Francisco, Oct. 29.—The Call publishes an interview with General Rosecrans with regard to the telegram from the East which charges that the signature to the Morey letter was copied from a letter written by Gen. Garfield to Gen. Rosecrans in 1862, which letter is now claimed to be in possession of certain parties in the East.

Reporter—General, can you give any explanation of the manner in which the story originated?

Gen. Rosecrans—No, sir, I cannot; it was evidently manufactured out of whole cloth. Some explanation has to be offered, and they probably selected me as the best subject [illegible] from the fact that I was so far away, and probably because I have been friendly to Garfield.

Reporter—Then there is no foundation to the story that you sent the letter East?

Gen. Rosecrans—No, sir. The whole charge is absurd and wilfully false. I never sent any such letter, and I pronounce the story an infamous lie.

Reporter—Do you not believe that they mean to make that you knowingly lent your aid to the scheme of forgery?

A.—Yes sir. I can't express my contempt for men who would stoop so low. It is an infamous outrage, and I just want to say one word (alluding to that foolish little [illegible] speech which Garfield recently delivered at Mentor. I never yet have attacked Garfield, but I do now, and I pronounce him a fraud, an unmitigated fraud.

The General throughout the interview exhibited under great excitement, his vehemence causing him to tremble violently. He denounced [illegible] with the charge of complicity in unmeasured terms.

The California Sand Lot Address.

New York, Oct. 29.—The address of workingmen of California is being circulated as a campaign document here. It commences as follows: "The workingmen's party of California heretofore not affiliating with any other political party, but now having unanimously resolved to support Hancock and English, send greeting to their brethren and sisters of labor throughout the east, north and south of their common country without distinction of party, and appeal to them for relief." After presenting the condition of workingmen in California as reduced to want and beggary through the influence of the Chinese, it states "we can hope for no relief from the republican party, and especially Garfield, who has always worked to promote Chinese immigration to this country and to give to the Chinese the right of suffrage." It concludes: "Our only hope is in the election of Hancock and English." The platform on which they stand speaks in no uncertain terms." The address is signed by J. H. Grady, chairman state central committee, workingmen's party, and by D. [illegible], secretary workingmen's party.

THE DOIG CASE.

Full Text of Judge Hoffman's Decision Sustaining the Writ of Habeas Corpus—The Case Turns on the Power and Duty of the District Judge to Refuse to Send a Person for Trial in Another District, Where the Indictment is so Defective in Statements that the Court to which it was Presented Ought to Decline to Act upon it.

The return of the marshal shows that he holds the prisoner by virtue of a commitment by United States Commissioner [illegible], commanding him to receive into his custody and safely keep the said Thomas Doig to await the action in the premises of the United States district Judge for the district of California. The offense for which the petitioner was committed is described in the commitment as follows: "That on or about the 19th of April, 1880, in the district of Oregon and within the jurisdiction of the district court, of the United States for said district, he the said Thomas Doig, having then and there control and management of a certain steam vessel called the Great Republic, as a pilot, and, by his misconduct, negligence and inattention to his duty as such pilot, caused the death by drowning of the first officer and others of the crew of said steamer vessel, whose names are to the jurors unknown." The complaint on which the original warrant of arrest was issued charged the prisoner with the offense [illegible] on the high seas, but it appears by the commitment [illegible] admitted by the district attorney that the only evidence produced to the committing magistrate was a

CERTIFIED COPY OF AN INDICTMENT

Found by the grand jury of the United States for the district of Oregon. It is contended, on behalf of the petitioner, that the indictment nowhere alleges the crime to have been committed [illegible] within the district of Oregon; but on the contrary, it affirmatively appears that the offense, if any, was committed in Washington territory. The district attorney objects to the consideration by the court of this question and contends that the duty of the district judge in the premises is purely ministerial, and restricted to issuing a warrant for the removal of the prisoner to the district where the trial is to be had (R. S. 1014). This view of the powers and duties of the district judge in such cases, or of the powers and duties of the circuit or district court when the prisoner is brought before it on a habeas corpus cannot be maintained. In the case of [illegible] Buell the question was presented [illegible] very similar to that of the [illegible]. Buell was arrested and committed in [illegible] the district of Columbia [illegible] the East district, charging him with having written a libel which he afterward published in Detroit. It was contended there, as here, that the question of the

SUFFICIENCY OF THE INDICTMENT

Was for the court in which it was [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] and the [illegible] aforesaid and that by reason of his said misconduct, negligence, and inattention to his duty as pilot aforesaid, he, the said Thomas Doig, so as pilot as aforesaid, ran said vessel ashore on Sand Island in said Columbia river and said vessel was then and there wrecked and lost, and that certain persons whose names are to the jurors unknown, were by the said misconduct, etc., of said Thomas Doig as pilot as aforesaid then and there drowned; that by reason of said misconduct, etc., and the destruction of the lives of said others, the said Doig became and was guilty of manslaughter, contrary to the form of the statute, etc. The section of the revised statutes under which this indictment is drawn is, so far as is material to this case, in substance as follows: "Every captain, engineer, pilot [illegible] by whose misconduct, negligence or inattention to his duties the life of any person is destroyed [illegible] shall be deemed guilty of manslaughter." It is not sufficient under this statute that the officer has been guilty of misconduct, negligence and inattention to duty. Human life must have been destroyed. The destruction of life is the

ESSENCE OF THE OFFENSE.

Misconduct, however gross, is innocent under this section unless it be the cause of the manslaughter. It is evident, therefore, that the offender is guilty, not when the misconduct or negligence occurred (it may be at the beginning of the voyage or trip as the case may be) but where the misconduct bore fruit by causing the death of a human being. The first clause of the indictment merely avers, as we have seen, that Thomas Doig, on the 19th of April, 1880, in the district of Oregon, and within the jurisdiction of the court was a pilot, etc. It does not even allege that he was then engaged within the district or within the jurisdiction of the court, in the performance of his duties as such pilot. It further avers that on the 19th of April, 1880, the Great Republic was "making a voyage from San Francisco to Portland," and that on that day she arrived off the Columbia river, at or near the automatic buoy; that Doig then and there took charge of her, and that by his misconduct she was wrecked on Sand Island, where the loss of life by drowning occurred. It is not alleged that the steamer was, at any time while Doig had charge of her, within the jurisdiction of the court. It is not averred that she was on the high seas, or that she was

WITHIN THE DISTRICT.

It is not averred that the automatic buoy, where the alleged misconduct commenced, is within the jurisdiction of the court or within the district of Oregon; nor is either of these averments made with respect to Sand Island, where the deaths by drowning occurred, and where the offense of manslaughter was committed. But this is not all. It affirmatively appears, from an examination of the statutes which define the northern boundary of Oregon, an inspection of the official charts of the coast survey, and the testimony of an expert who identifies the natural objects called for in the description of the boundary line contained in the statutes and laid down on the chart, that said island is not within the district of Oregon, but is within the boundaries of Washington territory. The offense is, therefore, not justiciable in the district of Oregon, and the United States courts of Oregon are without jurisdiction to try the offender. The analogy between this case and In re Buell, decided by Judge Dillon, is thus seen to be perfect. In that case it was this: The indictment showed on its face that the offense was not committed within the jurisdiction of the court in which the indictment was found. The prisoner must be discharged.

IN AND ABOUT ST. HELENS.

This [illegible] city is [illegible] prosperity [illegible] business revival seems to animate [illegible] this month.

The ladies of St. Helens are preparing to give a [illegible] literary entertainment on [illegible] evening, the proceeds thereof to furnish a new [illegible] for the M. E. church. It promises to be a [illegible] affair.

St. Helens lodge, No. [illegible], F. & A. M., is a healthy and vigorous branch of the [illegible]. They have a commodious and inviting hall, where the "three great lights of Masonry" shed their radiance for the delectation of the initiates. They hold their meetings on the first and third Saturday of each month.

The funeral services of Mrs. M. Johnson, conducted by Chaplain Stubbs of Portland, were held yesterday in the basement of the Masonic building, and called together quite a concourse of the citizens and friends of the deceased. The chaplain's address on the bible philosophy of death was listened to with evident interest.

Numbers of emigrants are moving into St. Helens, and several new houses are contracted for. The Muckle Bros. are expending about $3000 in the improvement of their wharves and elevation of Main street. A new and commodious school house is rapidly approaching completion, and all signs indicate quite a revival of business interests.

Very much credit is due to the Muckle Bros., under whose energetic management the extensive lumber mill is running on full time, putting into the market about 35,000 feet of lumber daily. This gives work to quite a large gang of men, who in turn give business activity to the stores, boarding and hotels. At the present time they are filling large orders for the O. R. & N. Co. of car materials and railroad ties.

Quite near to the mills is a ship yard, and on the stocks a beautiful schooner nearing completion, of about 243 tons burden. These cabalistic figures, her index of tonnage, as they foreshadow the presidential electoral vote for James A. Garfield, may foretell the name she is to receive when christened. She is 100 feet long, over all, has 24 feet beam, and 10 feet depth of hold. Her keel and keelson are full length pieces of timber 12x18, and many of her lining plank are 40 feet in length. There is some talk of putting up the frame of a barkentine for coastwise lumber trade, as soon as the James A. Garfield is launched.

BUSINESS REASONS.

When the probabilities of Gen. Garfield's election were so strengthened by the responses from Ohio and Indiana, commercial journals in all eastern cities noted the upward bound in markets as a reflection of the feeling of the mercantile and financial communities in relation to the political situation. Prior to that time all the leading markets had been held in suspense for several weeks. The New York Commercial Bulletin, strictly a journal of finance and trade, explains by saying that a change of party ascendency would introduce a modification of policy on some points and perhaps a complete reversal on others. Among the matters that in such event would be subject to disturbance would be the settlement of the public debt, our currency arrangements, the attitude of the government toward large corporations, the system of taxation and the tariff. These are all large issues, vitally connected with the public welfare, and although on each one wise legislation might improve on the existing status, yet there is no assurance that the changes would be wise, while it is certain that the protracted discussion of such questions would produce an unsettled feeling detrimental to business. In any event, men of business always shrink from important changes from existing arrangements, no matter how much better legislation may be needed. Merchants like to be let alone; they prefer the certainties of to-day to the uncertainties of a prospective change. This is especially their mood at this moment. They have endured several years of unprecedented commercial depression and of harrassing debate of public questions; and having at length reached a settlement of many important national issues, and being in the midst of a prosperous revival of trade, they prefer a continuance of the basis established by recent legislation to having all the lately settled questions reopened.

This very natural mercantile sentiment, as the journal above named continues, has gone far toward creating a disposition among the business community, to retain the government under the party now in power. The opposition have little dreamed that their promises to correct the errors of the "ins" and establish a better order of things, were the very thing that frightened men of business away from them; but the remarkable demonstrations of the mercantile and banking classes in favor of continuing the republican party in power leaves no doubt that this is the fact. Indeed, it may be safely said that the controlling factor in the present campaign is the strong desire of the mercantile community to have, at least for the next four years, an era of political rest. It can hardly be doubted that this will operate as a most powerful influence in New York, where business interests and influences are so large; and it seems to be not without good reason that the republicans of New York rely upon it as a powerful influence in opposition to democratic calculations.

WHICH IS THE MORE WORTHY?

No man has sufficient reason for aiding the democratic party unless he is desirous of subordinating the republic to the supremacy of so-called "sovereign" states; unless he wants a change in the present admirable financial policy of the government and the substitution of untried financial expedients; unless he would place the debt of the nation for payment in the hands of men who opposed resumption of specie payments and a large majority of whom have either repudiated the debts of their own states or favored the plan of national repudiation through pretended payment in greenbacks; unless he approves the methods of the solid south for nullifying the constitutional amendments and establishing a despotism which by violence and fraud crushes all political opposition; unless he would favor the elevation to the chief places of power in the union of all in the south most conspicuous and serviceable in the war for national destruction; unless he would place in the hands of the ex-confederates power to reorganize the supreme court of the United States in the interest of state sovereignty and rebel claims; and finally, unless he would reverse the whole policy of twenty years, under which national principles have been asserted and maintained, state supremacy beaten down, the finances re-established and the country restored to an unexampled prosperity. On no other conditions has the citizen any sufficient reason for supporting the democratic party. If he is not satisfied with the history of the last twenty years, then he will vote with the democratic party to condemn that history and reverse it. But if he believes in and approves the general tendency of national events since 1860; if he is satisfied with the assertion and maintenance of disputed national authority; if he detests a political despotism and therefore the solid south; if he would have perfect protection assured to all electors in the uncontrolled exercise of their political rights; if he would preserve inviolate all the results of the war for the national existence and for national freedom; if he is satisfied with the existing financial situation and with the general prosperity, and would not have either disturbed by the quacks who for fifteen years have been urging crazy financial schemes, then he should vote and will vote with the republican party. Parties are not to be judged by their professions merely, but by their whole course, history and tendency. Taking the history of the two parties for the last twenty-five years, which is the most worthy of the citizen's support? The question cannot be a hard one to answer.

CONTRASTS O[illegible]

Since the October elections the course of the managers of the democratic campaign has been utterly devoid of anything which could commend a party to the judgment of the country. Their dependence has been upon contemptible methods and little tricks. It is all mere fuss, fustian and frivolity, with a veneer of fraud and villainy. It is an effort to obtain, by the arts of management and the tricks of electioneering, control of the government and possession of the public offices, without offering anything whatever in the way of a policy that would justify an intelligent people in placing their party in power. It is hopelessly divided on the most important questions before the country and is able to carry on a consistent canvass only by ignoring them. It has no clearly defined position in regard to any distinct issue, and what it would do is a matter of great uncertainty. The republicans, on the other hand, have long been engaged in pursuing a definite policy, which is justified by its results, and they are far more likely to improve and perfect than to abandon it. What they have done in the administration of national affairs is known, and what they will do scarcely admits of doubt. The country is enjoying prosperity and a feeling of confidence, and the change demanded would be from certainty and security to doubt and possible peril. The people appreciate this more and more as the canvass proceeds. Hence the increasing strength of the republican canvass as shown by the recent elections, and the growing desperation of the democratic managers as evinced by the villainous little expedients they employ.

The story of the agreement in New York between the Tammany and the republican leaders is rather gauzy. No doubt the telegraph reports the rumor correctly, but it hasn't "body" enough to encourage one party or alarm the other.

A LESSON IN FINANCE.

When the late Gen. John A. Dix was Buchanan's secretary of the treasury he wrote to Hon. John Sherman, then chairman of the house committee of ways and means, in explanation of the accumulation of large claims on the treasury in the hands of the assistant treasurer at New York, which there was no money to pay. Secretary Dix made a statement in his letter of requisitions made upon him by the secretaries of the various departments, as follows:

War department	$912,005 60
Navy	615,487 21
Interior	124,865 87
Treasury	255,435 07

To the claims presented in New York and for disbursements at Washington, the perplexed secretary added the special claims for codfishery bounties, making an aggregate as follows:

Washington claims	$1,905,695 05
New York claims	433,000 00
Codfishery bounties	447,201 89
Total	$2,785,896 94

To meet the pressing obligations upon him Secretary Dix undertook to sell $5,000,000 of treasury notes. Offered at 12 per cent., only $1,831,000 were readily sold, and it was with difficulty that the New York banks were induced to take the remainder.

In connection with this statement of the finances of the nation under the last democratic administration, the people should remember that Secretary Sherman has refunded a large part of the national debt at 4 per cent. and will be able to refund the remainder at 3½ per cent. if Gen. Garfield is elected in November.

With such a lesson in finance, do the people wish a "change" from republican to democratic management?

General Rosecrans should not get angrily excited. When he calls General Garfield "a fraud" he may start afresh the inquiry as to why he was relieved from command in the midst of the war. It was simply because General Grant, who knew the military capacity of men as well as any commander who ever lived, found General Rosecrans a failure, or, as he himself would put it, "a fraud." But as Grant never wastes words or uses epithets, he didn't speak of Rosecrans as Rosecrans now foolishly speaks of Garfield, but simply and quietly had the command turned over to Thomas, and never permitted Rosecrans to have command afterwards. It is imprudent in General Rosecrans to call public attention to his own conspicuous failure.

We have inquiries from several sources as to our election laws. In general we may answer that no person can lawfully vote next Tuesday unless he has been in the state six months, is a citizen of the United States, and twenty-one years of age. An impression is said to be somewhat prevalent that as this is a presidential election, any person may vote without reference to his period of residence in the state. This is an error. Six months' residence is required. Men of foreign birth cannot vote unless, in addition to this requirement they have also declared their intention to become citizens one year prior to this election. These leading points are few and simple and should occasion no difficulty whatever.

The Deutsche Zeitung of this city says that the democratic party, in consequence of the loss of Ohio and Indiana, has entirely lost its head. This sums up the situation in a few words. It also expresses the opinion that the republicans will carry New York by 25,000. The Staats Zeitung, also published here, says there is no doubt that the republican party will win a victory next Tuesday through Ohio, Indiana and New York. This paper thinks that the electoral vote of Oregon will not be needed for Garfield, but that Oregon owes it to her honor to cast her vote that way; also, that as Oregon spoke so emphatically last June, so she will again speak next Tuesday.

All the testimony produced yesterday piles up additional proofs of the forgery committed by Barnum's tools. The experts all testified that the handwriting of the so-called Morey letter was Philp's, and not the handwriting of the genuine Garfield letters produced for inspection and comparison. Examined under the microscope the writing shows erasures; and other indications obtained by tests known to experts in matters of this kind, of which our dispatches give detailed account, all tend to fix the forgery. From the first there was no doubt about it; and only the lowest and least reputable of democratic papers and politicians have had a hand in it.

The law requires that tickets shall be printed on plain white paper. The republican state central committee has sent to every precinct in the state an adequate supply of tickets, correctly printed, and on suitable paper. It is now stated that a large number of republican tickets have be printed on tinted paper, and sent out by the democratic committee. Of course the object is to mislead as many as possible into voting these tickets, and then throw them out as illegal. Electors should everywhere be on their guard against this and all other devices to defraud them.

Barnum wants to be senator from Connecticut, and English (that is the Connecticut specimen of that name) is candidate for governor of the nutmeg state. Both are immensely wealthy, and they are putting vast sums of money into the cause of reform. But suppose Connecticut should follow the fashion of Indiana, as it is very likely to do. There are forces in politics greater than corruption funds.

A dispatch a few days ago was made to read that "Hankins, republican, would probably be elected governor in Kentucky." This blunder arose from an error in punctuation. The dispatch should have read that in Tennessee (as two democratic tickets are in the field) Hankins, republican, was likely to be elected governor, while in Kentucky two republican congressmen were expected.

The democratic effort is getting lower and lower. Yesterday it manifested itself in distribution of copies of the Barnum-Philp forgery to school children in Cincinnati. Some might consider this weak and thin. But Barnum evidently thinks it a great card.

ANOTHER "GREAT ISSUE" SETTLED.

And now the following letter is put in as a "[illegible]ing issue" of the campaign, having been printed by an obscure newspaper here:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY, WASHINGTON, D. C.,
February 23, 1876.

H. W. Scott, Collector of Customs, Portland, Oregon: Sir—It appears from your statement No. 5 of moneys received and deposited, that upon February 5, 1876, there remained in your hands a balance of $28,958 58 public due the United States, and that on the 8th instant you transmitted for deposit the sum of $13,000 only, leaving still in your hands the sum of $15,958 58. I will thank you to explain to this office why you retained so large an amount in your possession, and why you did not transmit your deposits [illegible] the collections on hand in accordance with department's instructions heretofore given you.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) CHAS. F. CONANT,
Assistant Secretary.

This letter has been printed by the scrub sheet referred to, with comments designed to carry the suggestion or insinuation that it reveals official dereliction. Mark how plain a tale shall put it down:

Money collected here as duties can be deposited only with the treasurer or with an assistant treasurer of the United States. San Francisco is the nearest point at which such deposits can be made. Every collector must render to the department weekly reports of all moneys collected and deposited. But moneys deposited in San Francisco can only be credited in the collector's accounts as he receives the certificates of deposit from there; and these certificates must be forwarded to Washington with his weekly statements. As a consequence money would accumulate from collections and returns would often show on hand more or less money in every weekly statement in excess of the amounts covered by the certificates of deposit. It will be seen, of course, that this was simply unavoidable. These additional sums would, however, be taken up in the next returns, as his certificates of deposit were received by the collector from San Francisco. There was no other possible way of doing the business, and there is no other way now. The business has always been so done, and it is the simplest and clearest matter in the world.

This preliminary statement will render what follows entirely plain. The records of the custom house here show that out of this $28,958 58, returned on the papers as in the collector's hands in the statement for the week ending Feb. 5, 1876, $15,000 had been transmitted previously, that is, on the 22d January, was deposited in San Francisco on the 29th January, and was credited in the weekly statement of Feb. 12—that is, in the next statement after the certificate was received here from San Francisco. Of the balance $13,000 was transmitted Feb. 7, not Feb. 8, (as the original letter on file shows that the scamp who copied it copied it incorrectly) and was deposited at San Francisco Feb. 14. Thus, of the $28,958 58, referred to in the letter above, $15,000 was in the treasury of the United States 25 days before the letter was written, and $13,000 was in the treasury 9 days before it was written. Also, before it was written, a large additional amount had been collected and deposited. This is the record of the custom house and of the treasury department.

Mr. Scott's accounts were always passed and settled at Washington and were finally and fully closed upon his retirement from office. He would not condescend to make this statement in reply to an insinuation uttered by an irresponsible rascal whose reputation is fixed by an official report fastening upon him the crimes of fraud and perjury, were it not that there may be persons not acquainted with methods of doing public business who might imagine that publication of the above letter indicated something not susceptible of easy and proper explanation. The letter was written by a treasury official who did not know or did not stop to reflect that there was no sub-treasury in Portland at which the money could be deposited and that it took time to transmit money to San Francisco, get back the certificates of deposit and forward them to Washington.

ONE OF THE DOUBTING FOOLS.

EUGENE CITY, Oct. 29th, 1880.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In your paper of Oct. 27th you quote from the New York Herald of Oct. 15th as follows: "The Democratic prospect is gloomy enough in New York; but success in New York alone would not help it. Hancock needs not New York and New Jersey, not New York and Connecticut, but New York, with both New Jersey and Connecticut to help him through. His chances for carrying any of these are doubtful; his chances of carrying every one of the indispensable three are slender indeed."

A person here denounces that as a "lie," and says that the Herald never published it. If you have a copy of the Herald for that date (Oct. 15th) will you please send it to me as there are no daily Heralds taken here. I have too much faith in THE OREGONIAN to believe that it would falsify the Herald in that manner. I will return the paper to you as soon as I convince the gentleman who the "liar" is.

A. J. JOHNSON.

Our copy of the Herald of Oct. 15th was cut to pieces and we have no other. But there are several copies taken here and elsewhere in the state. There is one on file in the Mercantile library of this city, and any one who desires may find it, with the article in question. The person to whom Mr. Johnson refers is no doubt one of those hard-headed and incredulous fools who will never believe anything that doesn't accord with their own deep-seated and ignorant prejudices. Time spent on all such is wasted. They are incapable of learning anything.—[ED.

A GRAND SPEECH.

One of the Finest Political Efforts ever Made in Oregon—The Court Room Packed—Great Enthusiasm.

[illegible] announcement that Judge Geo. H. Williams would speak at the court house last night [illegible] the largest audience [illegible] of the campaign [illegible] in the court [illegible] Arthur [illegible] H. P. [illegible] of Fourth street and [illegible] Excelsior [illegible] and hundreds were unable to get within [illegible].

The speaker was introduced by Hon. [illegible] chairman of the republican state central committee, who said:

[illegible]: I have the honor [illegible] one who has [illegible] to introduce [illegible] H. Williams.

Judge Williams, on stepping forward, was greeted with tremendous applause which continued [illegible] when he began his address. He [illegible] and enthusiastically [illegible] When we hear the strains of patriotic music [illegible] waving in the breeze, we are reminded of the achievements of the great republican party. Not that [illegible] that banner [illegible] the [illegible] of that party, but that [illegible] that party and its work, its stars and that banner would have been a lamentation and a byword among the nations of the earth. [illegible] echo the voice of history when I assert that had the democratic party been always the ruling power in this land, the national songs and the glorious stars and stripes would have become a mockery and a reproach. Buchanan was elected as a democrat by the democratic party and under the advice of a democratic attorney general, who is now a distinguished leader in the democratic party, Jere Black, he found when the hand of traitors attempted to rend the stars from that flag, that there was no power given to the federal government, in the constitution to coerce a sovereign state. No power to uphold the flag over the country, no power to ward off the blow aimed at the nation's life, no power to perpetuate the glorious inheritance of liberty and union bequeathed to us by our forefathers and which the republican party, through long years of toil and war, have cherished and maintained.

Referring further to the actions of the democratic party before the war, the speaker said democratic secretaries under Buchanan had scattered the arms and navy of the United States to the four winds of heaven, that they might not be accessible when the government was subjected to the attacks of a treason unsurpassed in atrocity in the history of our country. As this might have been considered an attempt to revive sections feeling, he said there was no impropriety in the discussion of the merits of any party seeking control of the government to refer to its history and its antecedents. Political parties are not to be judged by the platforms they adopt or the candidates they nominate, but by the record and the part of the history they have made in the administration of the government. Even judging the democratic party by its own declarations, it is still the same party that it was when it went into the rebellion, for in the Cincinnati platform the party declares that it adheres to constitutional doctrines and traditions and the examples of its long line of illustrious statesmen. What are the constitutional doctrines and traditions of the democratic party but the sentiments which it adhered to and maintained during its administration of the government? And who make up its long line of statesmen but those who controlled the party and led it into the great conspiracy against the government? Look at the present congress, and we see who are in control of the democratic party. One hundred and thirty-eight electoral votes are relied on from the solid south. With this they wanted forty-seven more from the north. With the same proportion in the house of representatives the south would have a voice as 3 to 1 in directing the affairs of the government. Two-thirds of the national caucuses of the democratic party now is composed of men distinguished in the confederate service. No candid man could deny that to entrust the reins of government to the hands that were raised against it would be prejudicial if not fatal to the best interests of the country. That party had been indoctrinated with the dogma of state sovereignty from the time of the adoption of the resolutions of '98. Time and again the questions of state sovereignty and national supremacy had been discussed and their respective advocates had won victory or suffered defeat. Scarcely had the smoke of battle cleared from the field of the great struggle which followed the overthrow of the doctrine of state-rights in the election of Abraham Lincoln to the presidency, when the same party, under the same leaders, began to assert it in the halls of congress. The ability to enforce the doctrine may have been eliminated by the war, but the claim of right was still held by the south.

Judge Williams then alluded to the well known opposition of the democratic party to every measure of reconstruction, to the constitutional amendments, and to all provisions for their enforcement as showing the fixed hostility of the party to the federal government. The party had attempted to legislate the army out of existence, and had it not been for the veto of a republican president the army of the republic would now be living only in the memory of its great achievements. The refusal of the democrats to make the appropriations necessary to carry on one department of the government was characterized as revolutionary and subversive of the authority of the government as well as destructive of its life. If the principle be once established that the house of representatives can refuse the appropriation necessary to carry on any one branch of the government, would carry with it the right to refuse all appropriations and the democracy might starve the government it could not shoot to death.

The south was not changed and it would not be safe to trust it with control. That it had not changed was shown in the disposition which had led to the killing of 24 and the wounding of 53 revenue collectors in that section. This was not because the people objected to the tax on tobacco and whisky, but because they looked upon the officers as emissaries come from a foreign power to despoil them.

Democracy proclaimed its adherence to home government, but under this phrase, innocent in sound, was concealed the same old doctrine of state sovereignty. The federal government is a home government of itself. The same party declaimed against centralization, a thing which could not happen under the constitution, except by consent of the people. He believed in the greatest amplitude of power in the general government to preserve itself and to guard against local prejudice, local interests and state sovereignty which even now is corroding the sacred bonds of the union. Every man born in this country or naturalized according to law is a citizen of the United States, and no matter what state he may hail from he ought to have the protecting arm of the nation's power thrown about him whenever the nation's flag kisses the breeze or dips in the sunlight and dews of Heaven. This grand idea of national unity is the idea of the republican party; one country, one people, one sovereignty, one flag—to fight for this and to uphold it against the machinations of the democracy, is the great unfulfilled mission of the great republican party.

The speaker touched upon that part of the democratic programme pointing to a reorganization of the supreme court, and showed the opportunity for evil which such a change would give to the democratic party if it had the control of the executive.

Approaching the question of finances allusion was made to the present prosperous condition of all branches of industry in the country. Manufactories springing up and going into operation throughout the towns and cities of the east, had carried plenty to thousands of homes where want and poverty had dwelt for years. In the middle states the day was darkened by the smoke and night made luminous by the blaze of the thousands of forges and furnaces, while long lines of ships and cars were bearing to the markets of the world the products of the great west. While all this prosperity was not the result of republican rule, no one could deny that as far as the value of an administrative policy could be judged by its effects, the situation was such as to commend the party in power. When the republicans got control of the government it was paying 12 per cent. interest on its debts, now United States 4 per cent. bonds command a premium of 2 per cent. Our currency was the best in the world, every dollar of it being, in the language of Gen. Garfield, as national as the flag. Our financial system was as immovable as the rock of Teneriff lashed by the never ceasing waves of old ocean. The flag and the currency of the nation known and recognized throughout the civilized world, the one as the emblem of its greatness and power and the other of its honor and integrity. Every man who has a greenback in his pocket has a stake in the government and if we had had such a system of finance before the war, that war would never have occurred for when a state seceded its money would have become worthless within its jurisdiction, but now behind every dollar of the currency stands the plighted faith, power and resources of the whole country.

To the claim that the south ought to be "conciliated" it was shown that all attempts on the part of republican administrations in that direction had been slighted, and there was the south as solid now as when the war closed. Every state government is in the hands of its democratic or ex-confederate party. Once there was a republican party in the southern states, but it is now scattered by kuklux klans, rifle clubs and bulldosers, and the republican party confined to the north by such means is called a sectional party. Nothing has been done by President Hayes to irritate or interfere with the south except to the bare performance of his duty as laid down by the constitution and no disposition to recognize these efforts at conciliation has been shown. Republicans have become sick and tired of this cry of conciliation but it still goes on, until it has become the hypocritical whine of the craven office seeker or the cringing of the coward. The general government stands convicted before God and man of having abandoned the men who stood by the union in the south, to persecution, proscription and death, and yet this cry goes on and will until the sword and purse is given over to the south and the people of the north become mere "hewers of wood and drawers of water" to the people of the south as they were before the war.

In a brief manner the speaker compared the candidates of the two parties, referred in scathing terms to the vile calumniators who sought to carry on the campaign by slander and abuse and concluded a brilliant peroration by urging all lovers of their homes and their high privileges as American citizens to be united until the glorious victory, upon the bright prospect of which the country is to be congratulated, crowned the glorious fight the republican party is making.

In many parts of his eloquent and statesman-like address, Judge Williams was interrupted by rounds of approbation. The entire audience which was composed of the most intelligent classes of our citizens from all the walks of life. His speech, which occupied two hours, is only briefly outlined above, and was pronounced by many as the greatest speech yet made in our state during the campaign.

DROWNING OF CHARLES McINTOSH.

On Tuesday evening last a young man named Charles McIntosh lost his life by drowning at Knappa, Clatsop county, under the following circumstances: The deceased and Wm. Frazer, employed at Rose's logging camp, situated on the slough, about a mile and a half from Knappa, came down to the [illegible] village in a small skiff, to obtain the mail for the logging camp and having procured the mail started on their return. When not more than 50 yards from the Knappa wharf a wave [illegible] stern of their frail bark and swamped it. Neither of the occupants could swim, and McIntosh said to his companion, "Will you take one oar and I the other and we'll make shore." Frazer succeeded but poor McIntosh failed and sunk before any assistance could be summoned. His body was recovered the next day and a messenger dispatched to Astoria to procure a coffin preparatory to the funeral.

The Rev. J. V. Milligan, Presbyterian minister of Astoria, was summoned to Knappa to perform the funeral ceremonies, which were largely attended yesterday (Friday) by all the former associates of the unfortunate deceased. McIntosh was only 19 years old, and had been in this state only five or six months, arriving from Nova Scotia, where his parents still live, to mourn his untimely end.

THE SERVANT GIRL QUESTION.

Almost every day we notice one or more advertisements under the above head and in many instances repeated by the same advertiser, who has evidently tried in vain to get house help. Yet they say girls cannot get work but the heathen Chinee monopolizes it all. If girls would enter the service of a family and perform the work assigned to them in a faithful manner, keeping in sight the fact that they are the help and not the mistress there would be more girls in service and in consequence a falling off of Chinese help. Too many girls enter service who think they know the duties of a cook and can fill any position in a household, a few days' trial settles the fact that they do not know anything of either, and yet the cry goes out "too many Chinamen." Cooking and housework has to be learned and when learned, carried out to the letter. These remarks do not apply to many deserving girls, but to a large class who fall in many particulars as house help.
